Introducing THE SALEM SPIRIT

... the Spirit that needs no introduction, because it is such a vital part of every Salemite's life. We find it present in our friendships, in our classes, in our relationships with the faculty, on the athletic field, and in our organizations. It is symbolic of Salem and all that it means to us. Such things as honor, truth, consideration, courtesy, sportsmanship, the balance of responsibilities with fun, high ideals, a love of our school—these things make up the Salem Spirit, the Spirit that will not be left behind when we graduate, but that will be a part of us forever.

In dedication

Let "x" represent her, although it is doubtful that she is unknown to any Solemite. We all know her for her friendliness, her love of nature, and her interest in us. She gives us our start at Salem, patiently guiding us through raising the flag, putting out hymnals, and giving our carnival. Her sportsmanship and spirit are an example to us repeatedly as she enthusiastically takes part in Senior Day, Faculty Stunt, the Junior-Faculty softball game, and other phases of our school life which necessitate a temporary loss of dignity. She teaches us the Pythagorean Theorem and Quadratic Equations giving us the benefit of her cheery humor as well as her knowledge, but she takes no nonsense. Or if we have trouble in learning, she is never too busy to take time to help us outside of class.

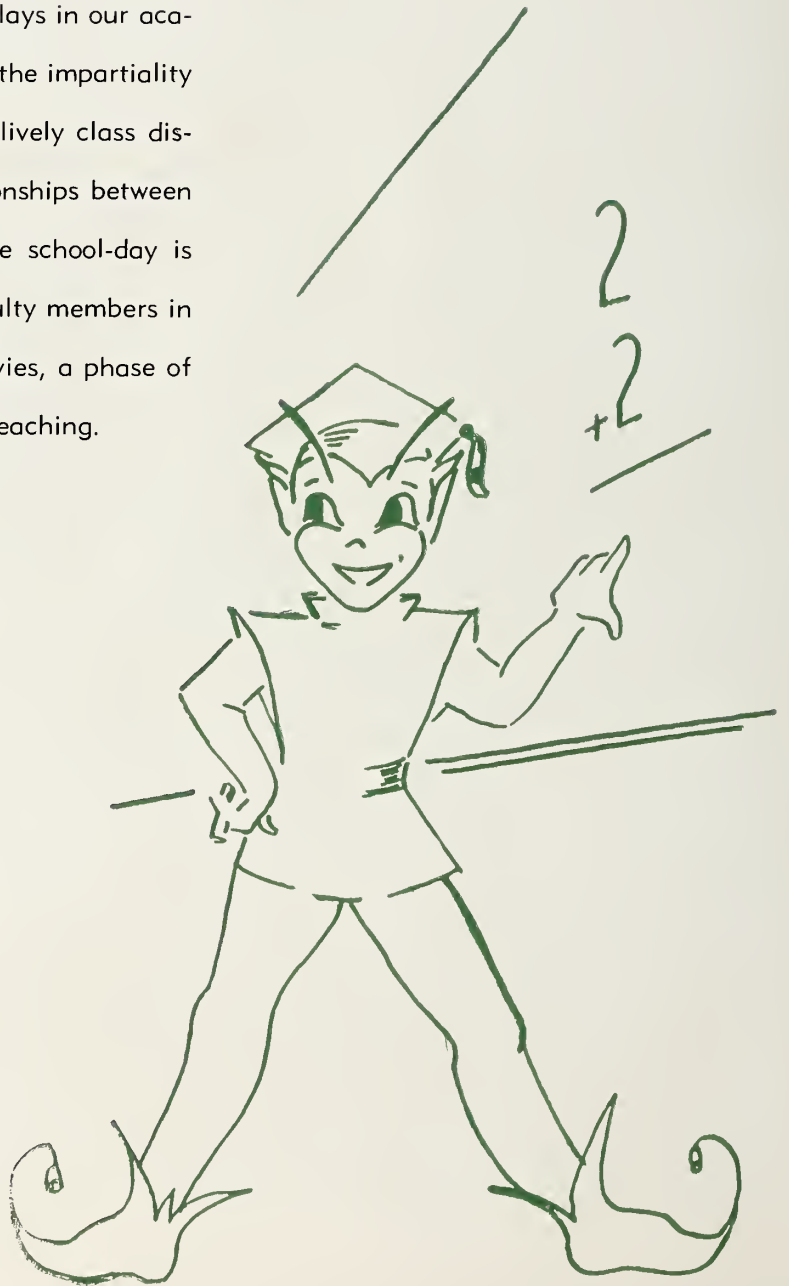

We are proud to know her and to have this chance to thank her. To you, Miss Nunn, we dedicate the 1953 Quill Pen.

MISS ELSIE NUNN

Academic Life

What a significant part the Spirit plays in our academic life! Its influence is shown in the impartiality and fairness of the faculty, in the lively class discussions, and in the friendly relationships between the faculty and students. After the school-day is over, we find the Spirit helping faculty members in sponsoring organizations and activities, a phase of school life almost as important as teaching.

Salem Classes

"Genius of work!" Loni Andrews struggles with a chemistry lab problem.

A future homemaker is Ann Crenshaw, who follows the advice of present homemaker, Mrs. Brown.

"Try this for size." Sallie Meade models an authentic Fiesta jacket for the Spanish class, assisted by Mrs. Lyon.

Interest and fun are combined with classroom work to make our studies enjoyable and constructive. Visits to the Arts Center have been made by Miss Wheeler's history of art class. Miss Compton and her modern history students toured a local tobacco factory to gather first-hand information relative to their study of the Industrial Revolution. Bacteria cultures and dissected animals illustrate the biology class activities. Modern language recordings are helpful to the French and Spanish students. The unusual sounds in the Latin room are efforts of those taking advantage of the new speech class offered by Miss Halcomb.

Classes

The Salem Spirit at times becomes a specialized class spirit as students look toward their particular class activities. About the time of Senior ring distribution, the Senior spirit grows overpowering, while during the Freshman Carnival, the Freshman spirit is especially big and husky. Through all, the common Salem Spirit draws the class spirits together and makes them cooperate for their mutual benefit.

Senior Class

Hail almighty Seniors!! Taking one of their last walks down these familiar steps are Senior officers Barbara Faard, President; Betty Heekin, Vice-President; Betty Dale Pressly, Secretary; and Sallie Meade, Treasurer.

The first big Senior event is Senior Day, when they become faculty for a day and rule the school. A skit satirizing the faculty is given in chapel, and that night the Seniors hold court to "punish" those who failed to show them proper respect during the day. The Seniors get down to work, under Miss Compton's guidance, on their Bazaar held to help Salemites with their Christmas shopping. The Christmas candlelight vesper service is conducted by the Seniors. Just before graduation the faculty are guests at the Senior-Faculty breakfast. The Class Day program, written by Senior Scribbler's Club members, is presented in the May Dell on Graduation Day, and that night to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" the Seniors take tearful leave of the Academy.

Junior Class

The Juniors are responsible for much of the between-meal-eating at Salem. With Miss Palmer's help in filling the coke machine and change box, they manage the Duck Inn until spring vacation, sell soup and buns, refreshments for all the school movies, and coffee and doughnuts for Sunday morning sleepyheads. Presenting movies, a fashion show, a skit and selling Christmas cards and tip-ons are a few of the many activities that keep them busy and aid the Juniors in reaching their goal—the most beautiful Junior-Senior ever held at Salem. However, they can hardly keep from hoping that next year's will be its closest rival.

It's too early for a sunburn, but the Sophomore officers anticipate sunbathing out on the terrace. The optimistic ones are Jane Duncan, President; Mary Moore, Secretary; Sherry Lynn, Vice-President; Ellen Fortune, Treasurer.

Sophomore Class

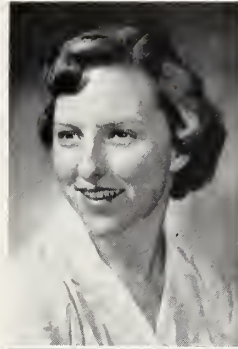

The Sophomore's fullest schedule comes second semester when they bravely challenge the Freshman to the Sophomore-Freshman basketball game. To give the Juniors a chance to put in extra work on the Junior-Senior, and also to prepare themselves for the following year, the class takes over the management of the Duck Inn after spring vacation. Not to be outdone by the Juniors, the Sophomores honor the Seniors by giving a tea dance on the afternoon of the Junior-Senior. The highlight of the tea dance is the crowning of the Senior Beauty Queen. During the year, the Sophomores, with the help of their sponsor, Mrs. Blackwell, are responsible for a skit and two movies.

Freshman Class

Salem Freshmen don't waste any time being green. Instead they start right off raising the flag every morning before breakfast and lowering it in the evening before dark. Their big project for the year, however, is the Freshman Carnival, which they give with the help of their sponsor, Miss Nunn. Built around an attractive theme, such as this year's flower garden, the Carnival makes money for the Freshmen with its penny-pitching contests and shuffle-board games. Sometime during the year the Freshmen provide a movie for the student body and, like the other classes, are responsible for a skit.

Honors and Organizations

The Salem Spirit is always behind us with the announcement of honors—in the standards of the girls who win them, and in our happiness for them and our pride in them. In our organizations, the Spirit shows itself too, for as well as the fun we have, there must be leadership, responsibility, and contributions by everyone for our organizations to be successful.

Honor Graduates

Behind Bee and Julia are the Salem gate and years of hard work, which enabled them to achieve recognition as Honor Graduates. Barbara Foard and Julia Hart won the top academic honors for 1953.

President of the Student Body

Here you see the familiar sight that brings calm out of chaos each Wednesday night. Joanne Musgrave's natural poise prevails over the weekly Student Body meetings to make them more effective.

Academic Marshals

Citizenship Honor

In the spring the highest non-academic award, Citizenship Honor, is bestowed upon those girls whose fellow students feel that they have best lived up to all the requirements of a good Salem citizen. Raising the flag on Recognition Day of 1952 are pictured Ann Altvater '52, Sally Hazen '53, Jane Moore '53, Margot Moore '55, Joanne Musgrave '53, Barrie Altvater '54, Margaret Woolfolk '53, and Barbara Foard '53.

Problems of everyday dormitory life fill Morgoret's notebook as she keeps minutes of Student Council meetings. Gathered around President Joanne Musgrove and Miss Brown are: Joane Moore, Senior Counselor, Lindo Pettyjohn, Betty Heekin, Morgie Smith, Flo Robinson, and Anne Jordan. Standing are Morgoret Woolfolk, Senior Counselor and Secretary, Bobbie Plummer, and Borrie Altwater.

Student Council

When arriving at the Academy the first people a new Salemite sees are the busy Student Council members rushing around, greeting the new girls, showing them their rooms and introducing them to their roommates. From then on the Student Council, composed of the student hall representatives, the Senior counselors, and the President of the student body, plays an important part in the life of every girl. Not only does it sponsor such all-school activities as the opening banquet, the Christmas banquet and servants' party, and the Spirit Fire ceremony at the end of the year, but it also directs activities of service committees.

At Council meetings Academy rules are thoughtfully discussed, and Council decisions are given to the students at the Wednesday night student body meetings or in the small discussion groups held for the purpose of airing problems.

Honor Council

A test is being given, and the teacher leaves the room . . . where could that happen but in a place like Salem, where the honor system really works? Guardians of Salem honor are the members of the Honor Council, constantly at work trying to instill in each girl a higher sense of personal integrity. The Council deals particularly with dishonesty in the classrooms and misbehavior in study hall. The Council, composed of three seniors (the President of the Student Body as an ex-officio member), two Juniors, one Sophomore, one Freshman, a Day Student representative, and a sponsor, meets whenever necessary after lights to discuss problems. Although the Council does not punish a girl for breaking rules, it does try to give her a clearer understanding of Salem ideals.

Dramatics Club

Play acting—a flight of the imagination, a wonderful chance to be someone else—is something everyone indulges in at one time or another. Yet dramatics is not all glamour; it takes hard work behind the scenes and at often uninspired rehearsals to produce the finished production. To reward these efforts the Dramatics Club elects to membership girls who have earned ten points by their work in plays, either as actresses or committee members.

Three one-act plays, "Joint Owners in Spain," "The Flattering Word," and "Riders To The Sea," were presented by the Club during the first semester. In collaboration with the Glee Club the dramatics group presented the annual Christmas pageant, and in the spring, the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, Pirates of Penzance. The Broadway play, Alice Sit by the Fire, by J. M. Barrie, was presented in March.

Glee Club

"Waa, waa, waa, waa, waa." No it's not Indians, not a nursery school, but the Glee Club practicing on Tuesday and Friday afternoons. One of Salem's most popular organizations, the Glee Club is made up of almost the entire student body.

Under the direction of Mrs. Eugene Jacobowsky, the group gave a program at the Patrons' tea in the early fall, a Thanksgiving program, and played an important part in the annual Christmas pageant. During the second semester, the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, Pirates of Penzance, was presented. Also the group was guest choir of the Home Moravian Church and sang in the Commencement recital.

Spiritual Steering Wheel

The Spiritual Steering Wheel is the organization which promotes the religious life at Salem. Sponsoring nightly home devotions and Sunday afternoon vespers are the main responsibilities of this group.

During the year various charity projects are sponsored by the S.S.W. Under their guidance a collection is made to provide a poor family with Thanksgiving cheer. The entire student body carols for the Old Ladies' Home before Christmas. The spring orphans' party is enjoyed both by children from the Orphans' Home and Academy students who are their hostesses for the afternoon.

Religious Emphasis Week, sponsored by the group, this year brought to Salem the Rev. J. Walter Dickson, minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Belmont, N. C. During his visit Rev. Dickson spoke at chapel, had informal group discussions after dinner, was available during the day for personal conferences, and generally made himself well-liked for his sense of humor as well as his inspiring talks.

Scribbler's Club

The Scribbler's Club here at Salem is an organization which encourages girls who are talented in creative writing and art to express themselves. Club activities this year include the publication of the summer bulletin "Pencil Shavings" and an all-school party given early in the fall. Of special interest was an open interview with three Hollywood personalities, Rod Cameron, Chill Wills, and Alice Kelly which was attended by Evelyn Wyche, Daisy Doughton, and Sallye Long. An issue of the club magazine was also distributed as a souvenir for Commencement week-end, carrying the program of the class pageant as well as examples of creative writing. Activities of the group have been limited this year, since it is in the process of reorganization. The club sponsor is Miss Nancy Fisk.

Quill Pen Staff

A tiny white envelope delivered at a November lunch was the first introduction to several months of flurried activity as members of the 1953 Quill Pen Staff for twenty-five girls. Editor Sally Hazen and Business Manager Julia Hart were elected last spring, but their staffs were chosen this fall.

The Business staff assumes all the financial headaches of the Quill Pen; the Advertising staff solicits the ads from Winston-Salem businessmen and Salemites' fathers.

Deciding on a theme is the first job of the Editorial staff. The book's layout is planned, page by page, and then the cameras start clicking and the typewriters start pounding in the supreme effort to meet the February deadline.

The climax of the staff's work comes at the Senior Farewell Banquet, when the annual, the theme of which has been kept a closely-guarded secret, is presented to the student body.

Committee Chairmen

The Salem community is led by six committee chairmen, with every student serving an one of these committees.

The Service Committee is in charge of the "last and found" sales, straightening classrooms, and placing napkin rings. The social Committee plans the birthday banquets, teas, and some Saturday night programs. The Good Will Committee sees that the girls in the infirmary get their books and assignments, and that the kitchenette rules are posted and observed. Arranging chapel programs is the duty of the Program Committee. The Community and World Service Committee collects contributions for the World Student Service Fund, and sponsors the adaptation of a faster daughter (from Halland this year). The aim of the Standards Committee is to keep the standards of the individual and school at a high level.

Dance Committee

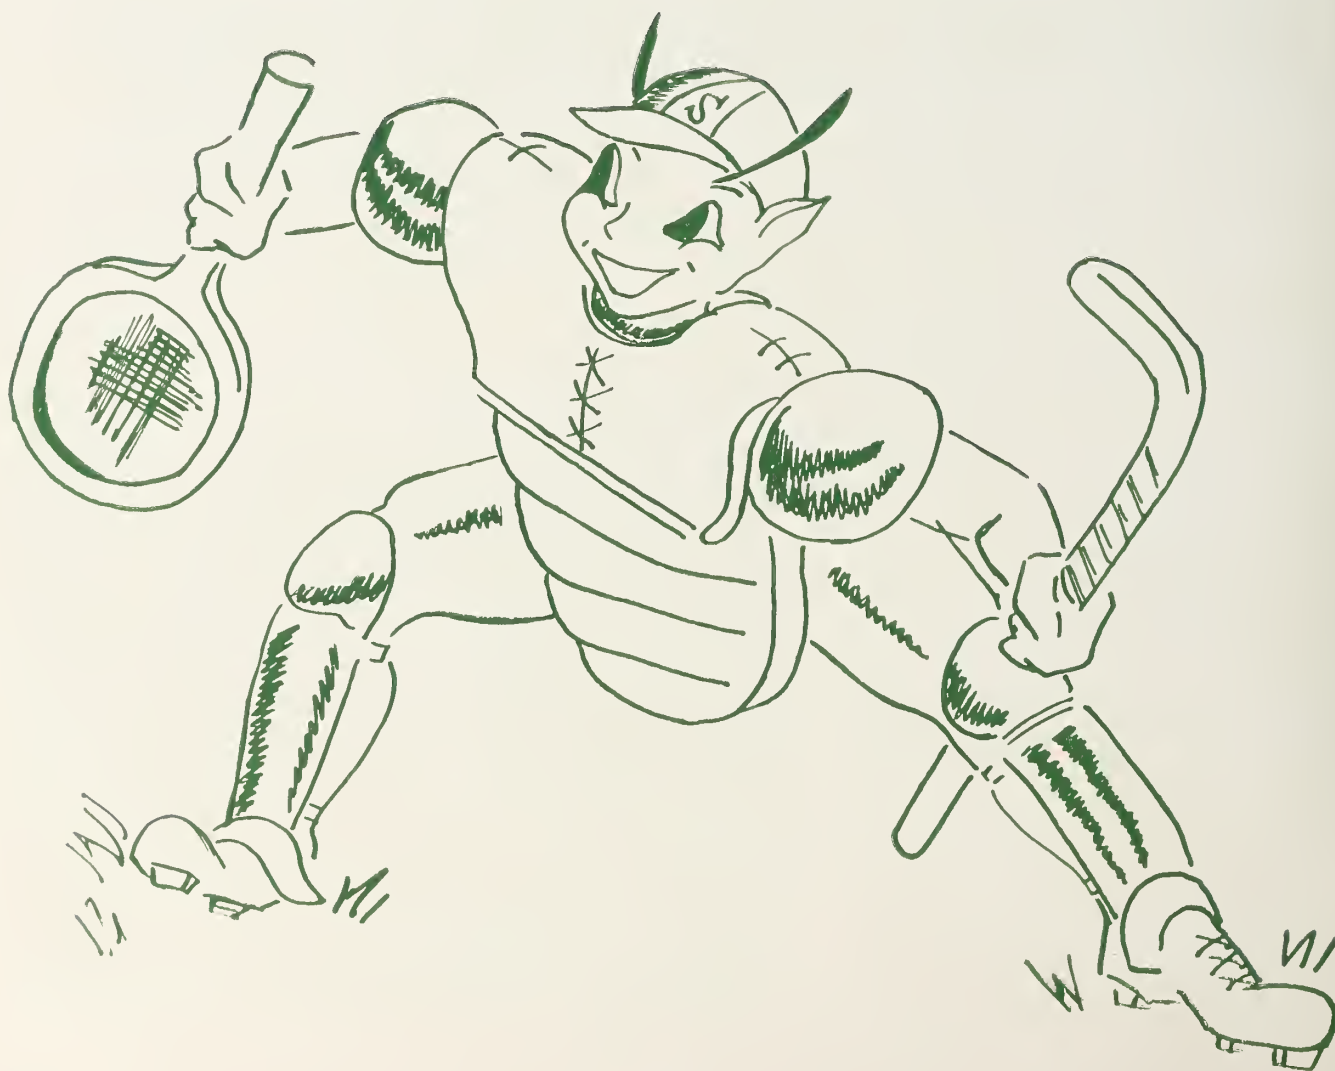

These beautiful decorations that we find in the gym on the nights of our formal dances are just one of the things that we can credit to the Dance Committee. These girls must think up a theme for the dance, make the arrangements for an orchestra and for refreshments, and send out all the important invitations to these special fellows. We cannot help but appreciate all their efforts as we dance under soft lights to the strains of good music, and add another wonderful time to our scrapbook of memories.

Sports

The vigorous singing of "On Ye Purples" and "Good Old Gold Team" at the Gold-Purple games shows us how much team spirit each Salemite has. The Spirit is with us on the tennis court or on the hockey field; he crops out in the fair play and sportsmanship that can be seen every time the ball is put into motion.

Athletics

Our athletic spirit is kept busy all year long, starting with the tug-o-war and the little olympics which follow the Purple-Gold team drawing. Throughout the year there is something buzzing in the athletic line. Fall brings soccer and hockey; winter, basketball and speedball; and spring, volleyball and softball. Golf is a major spring sport for Juniors and Seniors. Tennis singles and doubles, ping pong and badminton scattered through the year keep things perking.

Sallie Meade, Head of Gold Team

The Athletic Council, the governing body for sports, is composed of the team heads, Mary Saunders Williamson and Sallie Meade, the heads of the seven major sports, heads of tennis, riding and individual sports, and the athletics instructor, Miss Palmer. Their job is to encourage fair play on the field and to sponsor tournaments, the posture campaign, and morning walks.

In addition to helping her team pile up points toward the coveted cup, each girl has a private goal. Points are awarded for participation in sports, and 350 points make a girl eligible for an award. This number looks mighty big at the beginning of the year, but as time passes and teams are chosen, tournaments played, varsities announced, the weeks of getting up five minutes early for morning walks go by, the distant dreams of Freshman letters, Sophomore emblems, Junior plaques, and the sought-after Senior loving cups became a reality. On Recognition Day the awards are presented by the heads of the Purple and Gold teams, and the team cup is awarded.

Mary Saunders Williamson, Head of Purple Team

Soccer

"Let's have a fast pass, Nancy, the Golds are closing in." Lucy Meade, Anne Nicholson, and Janice Ausmus rush Betty Jane May and Nancy Dixon, while Dorsey Cosby comes to the rescue.

Hockey

A little white ball is the center of attraction for hockey players Julia Hart, Anne Crenshaw, Margot Moore, Ann Palmer, and Charlotte Lawson.

Riding

Aiming for a blue ribbon, Tonya Gamble, Trudy Mason, Leilani Andrews, and Gail Farthing are off for Sedgfield. Leilani is the Head of Riding.

Body Mechanics

Calories vs. Calisthenics. Margie Smith, Gayle Cooper, Linda Pettyjohn, Anne Jordan, Judy Morton, and Mary Moore are fighting the battle of the bulge.

Basketball

"Catch it on the rebound!" Clustered at the basket are Babs Tyson, Margaret Woolfolk, Joanne Musgrave, Claire Cannon, and Marian Hutter.

Speedball

A game of ups and downs—in the air and on the ground. Taking part in the game are Betty Billups, Nina Narmore, Marie Watson, Clarke Fowler, Makie Griffin, and Patsy Treglown.

Softball

"Smash it, Barrie!" is the cry. Susan Wellons, Mary Jones, and Jane Moore cheer Barrie Altvater on to the dismay of Annie Gray Calhoun, the catcher. Pat Upton is the umpire.

Tennis

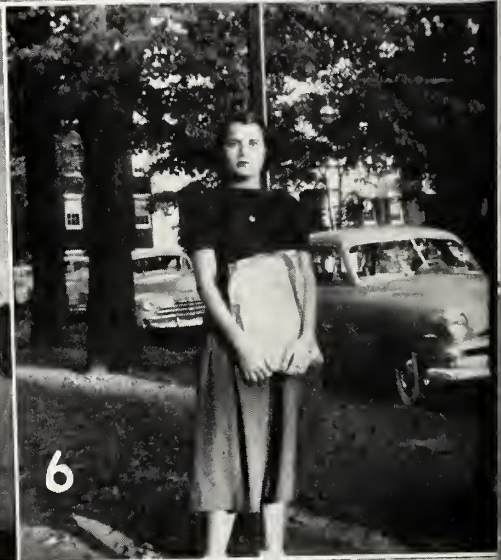

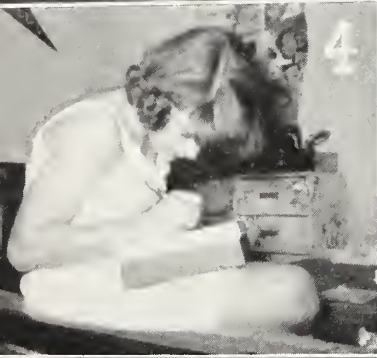

Love 15—it's a dangerous game but lots of fun. Martha Wheeler and Flo Robinson battle it out on the court.

Volleyball

"A beautiful serve, Teensie, but watch out for the return." Participating in a fast volleyball game are Leslie Taylor, Margaret Benton, Tops Anderson, Van Lindley, and Joan Brooks.

(1) Christmas Pageant. (2) What-cha-waiting 4ar? (3) See, hear, and speak na evil! (4) Dear Mather. (5) Yeah KA!! (6) "Campus Kidd." (7) "Riders of the Sea." (8) "Hard Cat." (9) "I love Lucy." (10) "Faur Biddies." (11) "Pricilla Prep."

The Salem Spirit looks at Winston-Salem and its businessmen with great appreciation and gratitude, for without their wonderful support, it could not have made its appearance in print.

We don't count the years!

At Chatham we count generations . . . four of them, in fact. It happened this way. About 75 years ago, the first Chatham built a pint-sized mill on the Yadkin River in North Carolina, did spinning and weaving for neighbors who traded raw wool for jeans and carriage blankets.

Good service nurtured good business, so that today Chatham is one of America's largest producers of blankets, automotive upholstery and women's coatings. A great mill has replaced the wooden building by the waterfall. But the way Chatham has kept pace with the industry cannot be measured by such a tangible sign. It should be judged, rather, by the conviction shared by four generations of Chatham sons—"family pride is a very good guarantee of quality."
